Support for You, and Your Pet

Airvet offers pet parents several mental health support resources. Book a free visit with subject matter experts to create a custom care plan for you and your pet.

Expert guidance through every stage of life

Airvet is here for you and your pet through every stage of life — including the hardest ones. If your pet is nearing end of life, or you simply want to understand what to expect, you can talk with a veterinarian who will listen and guide you with care. To schedule a conversation, select 'Additional Appointments' in the app.

Peace of mind ★★★★★

The technician I spoke with today was a godsend. She shared helpful information with me that helped me feel more confident that I'm making the right (hard) decision about my sweet dog's care today. This service has provided me so much peace of mind as we've navigated her illness and palliative care, and ultimately, the decision that it's time to let her go. Thank you all — you have an ambassador for life in me. — Sara & Gibson
