

SCRATCHING THE ITCH

Helping Your Pet Through Allergy Season

Did you know?

When dogs and cats develop allergies, they usually express it through their skin.

There is no cure for allergies, so avoidance and management are key.

Recognize the signs:

- Excessive scratching, biting, or head shaking
- Compulsive paw licking in dogs
- Red, inflamed, or infected skin

Pro tips to help soothe your pet's seasonal allergies.

Bathe your pet often:

Bathe 2x week during itchy times with a hypoallergenic or oatmeal-based pet shampoo.

Wipe off coat and paws:

Wipe (especially paws!) with a damp cloth to remove environmental allergens.

Brush often:

Brush to remove allergens that cling to your pet's coat.

Try over-the-counter allergy meds:

Contact Airvet and a vet can point you in the right direction.

Talk to a vet professional on Airvet!

Get personalized guidance for your pet's symptoms with a video call or chat—it's free and unlimited for you. An Airvet professional can recommend a care plan tailored to your pet's breed, age, and allergy triggers.

To activate your virtual pet care benefit and connect with a vet, visit join.airvet.com/getstarted or scan the QR code.

